Alicia	Second Laundress	4	There was a certain king, named Midas. Net worth: one hundred billion.	A/D
Alicia	Second Laundress	10	He went out walking and with every step, the gravel under his feet turned to golden nuggets. Delighted, he put his hand to branches of trees and to flowers and he had gold branches and flowers. All day long he experimented, almost insane with happiness, that the whole of the world could become his personal treasure. Late at night, he stumbled back into the courtyard, laden with precious gold.	A/D
Alicia	Narrator	12	One day Alcyone had heard that Ceyx had ordered his ship to be made ready for a sea voyage, to visit a far-off oracle.	D
Alicia	Narrator	13	She was hardly consoled, but she saw she could not hold out any longer in the face of his resolve. She allowed herself to be soothed and consented to his going. There were no more details left to be checked, no last-minute changes to make, and the men, arranged on their benches, were ready to row and go. He boarded and gave the sign. And then he turned to wave at her. She waved at him while the ribbon of black water widened between the ship and shore. She gazed at him until he was no longer distinguishable but still she could see the ship. And she narrowed her eyes to the horizon and watched it as it receded to a smaller and smaller object. And then the whole hull was gone, and only the sails remained, and then they, too, disappeared. She gazed still at the empty and desolate blue and then went to her empty bedroom to lie on the huge and vacant bed and give herself over to weeping.	A/D/L/T
Alicia	Narrator	13	But as the sun was sinking in the West, the water, everywhere blue until now, began to be flecked with the whitecapped waves sailors dislike. The weather was worse with every moment for the winds were on the loose.	B
Alicia	Narrator	14	But Poseidon and his Henchmamas had arrived. The rest was one enormous green catastrophe.	B
Alicia	Narrator	14	The men have lost their belief in their captain, their courage, their nautical skill, and even their will to live. as they wait for the end. One weeps and groans aloud. Another, no braver, is silent, dumbstruck. One calls on the gods for mercy. Another curses his fate. And one says one word,	T/D
Alicia	Narrator	15	Nothing left but the slow parade led by Hermes to the Underworld.	T
